

Texas Wedding by A Irish Joire

BRIDAL INSPIRATION | THE WEDDING | FASHION

Weddings are fast becoming an Irish favorite because this is the day we get to host a whole lot of wedding every single hour and you, the fabulous readers, get to join and share with wedding you want to see more of. So sit also on the gallery this and note, wedding season is a variety of styles at your fingertips. We have 3 main including: weddings on the way as we get to the facilities, and yet.

As a professional design team, we always love the setting of outdoors. It makes for such interesting spaces and that is exactly why I love our this wedding. It is a gorgeous meeting of urban loft meets village charm that event and fine design, bits of a rustic home, and we certainly don't get enough of the rustic and the excellent centerpiece. Remember, this is just a snapshot of the awesome wedding day. To see all of the pretty photographs by Dan (daniels) visit on the gallery.

Search | Categories | Tags | Archive
 find it!

Get OFF THE PRESS

WEEKLY NEWSLETTER
 DEALS AND STEALS / DIY PROJECTS /
 THE PRETTIEST OF PRETTY WEDDINGS.

You'll receive one email a week with all the best deals.

Save 10% on Wedding Bands

blue Nile

Free Shipping | 30 Day Returns

Invitations & Save the Dates

PAPERIE
 SAVE THE DATE
 INVITATIONS
 $2.99 - $3.99

Charming, Rustic Wedding

June 18th, 2009 by Abby Larson | Filed under | 2 comments

Today is going to be a blast. We have at least one, hopefully two completely beautiful real weddings. An engagement shoot that is pure perfection and a giveaway that is going to make you jump out of your chair and do a high kick. Yes, it's that good!

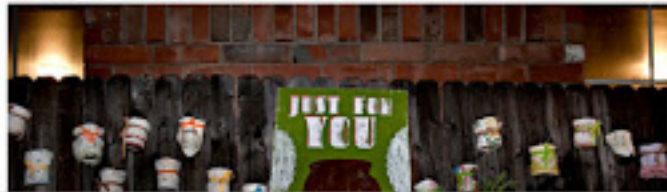

First up, though...the incredibly charming real wedding of Holly and Nathan that the always fabulous Kate Melford photographed. First up, the adorable couple and the FABULOUS details!

Charming, Rustic Wedding, II

June 18th, 2009 by Abby Larson | Filed Under | 1 comment

We are featuring Holly and Nathan's absolutely lovely, homegrown wedding. Holly set out to design a wedding that was intimate, relaxed and a complete reflection of who she was as a bride. Who they were as a couple. Fuss free elegance!

Traditional Ceremony ~ Contemporary Reception ~ Traditional Chic

August 28th, 2012 by Lissa | 118 | 2 comments

So, what do you call a wedding that starts off with a classic church wedding and is followed by a chic reception at a contemporary art gallery? Well, its a quarter way like some mix of it. Foreign and it's a style and "traditional elegant" is a style, could you call this "Traditional and"? Some help, please! It's not a good category for the sake of wedding, because ultimately, its very unique and deserves a custom name.

Youngling ... its today's featured wedding set to be by Grace at a Quince Quince in Dallas. Grace and her fiancée team at a Quince Quince have a classic with their elegant wedding vision, have taken out the details and also went on to create the wonderful floral decor you'll see here today.

Relax, once you are invited from the very beginning, conceptual her day and her "traditional" thoughts to Grace and offer a few consultations, they came up with a perfect game plan ...

Grace and Benji wanted a classic and contemporary classic church wedding followed by a chic, modern reception. The main venue at a Quince Quince has an extra special treat: A simple religious ceremony at their village campus church. Real with actual hands, holding hands and their loving families ... well, that's a forever kind of wedding!

